1 INTRODUCTION

After two years of extensive song writing the pace slows down. More and more of Dylan's interest in writing shifts away from song lyrics first to poems, then to prose. In a number of interviews he talks about a novel and also about several plays. None of these have however seen the light of day. One recording session in June results in his fourth and last solo album, Another Side Of Bob Dylan.

2 THE YEAR AT A GLANCE

3 CALENDAR

- 3 January Release of The Times They Are A-Changin'
- 31 January Helen McNamara interviews Dylan for The Toronto Telegram, while he is in Toronto for the filming of "Quest". Dylan mentions that he is currently working on both a novel and a play.
- 1 February The recording of "Quest", a half hour TV program series from the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.
- 2 February In an interview for the Canadian magazine "Gargoyle" Dylan again mentions the novel and the play. He keeps coming back to these topics in a number of interviews this year.
- 3-22 February Dylan, Victor Maimudes, Pete Karman and Paul Clayton make a cross-country trip from New York to Los Angeles.
- 6 February Dylan meets poet Carl Sandburg in Hendersonville, North Carolina. Like Robert Graves in England, Sandburg is polite but rather unimpressed by Dylan.

- 15 February Dylan plays Chimes Of Freedom for the first time during a concert at the Denver Civic Auditorium Theater.
- 25 February Steve Allen Show in Los Angeles.
- March Dylan is interviewed by Chris Well from Life.
- Mid March Final break up with Suze Rotolo, later "documented" in his song Ballad In Plain D.
- 9 May Dylan leaves for England, where he is to give a number of concerts and appear in TV shows.
- 12 May Maureen Cleave interview for the Evening Standard.
- 12 May TV program "Tonight".
- 17 May Max Jones from Melody Maker interviews Dylan.
- 21 May – Early June Dylan arrives in Paris where he stays with the French singer Hughes Aufray. He also meets Nico, to whom he later donates his song I'll Keep It With Mine, which she includes on her first album.
- 9 June In the only CBS recording session between October 1963 and January 1965 (!) Dylan records his last solo album, Another Side Of Bob Dylan.
- 16 June Another interview by Nat Hentoff for The New Yorker.
- Summer Dylan works with a book together with Barry Feinstein.
The writing of eleven poems, five of which are published as liner notes on Another Side with the title Some Other Kind of Songs. All eleven are later published in Writings & Drawings and Lyrics 1962-1985.
Rumoured recording session with Joan Baez, including three duets: Mama You Been On My Mind, Costa Bravos and All I Really Wanna Do.
- 24-26 July Newport Folk Festival. Dylan is the major performer on July 26th and he presents a new image to an audience of over fifteen thousand. His set contains no topical songs but his new All I Really Wanna Do, To Ramona, Mr. Tambourine Man and Chimes Of Freedom. For the encore he invites Joan Baez and they sing With God On Our Side Reviews are mainly unfavorable.
- 8 August Release of Another Side Of Bob Dylan.
- 21 August Dylan writes a parody of a letter from Joan Baez to her mother. It is included in her autobiography And a song to sing with.
- 28 August First meeting between Dylan and The Beatles takes place at the Delmonico Hotel in New York.
- 31 October The "Halloween" concert in New York Philharmonic Hall. CBS is again taping for a possible live album. The concert programme contains Dylan's poem Advice To Geraldine On Her Miscellaneous Birthday included in Lyrics 1962-1985.
- Early December Bob Blackmar interviews Dylan on the University of Santa Barbara Campus and later broadcasting it on the local KCSB station.

Notes

None of these songs had been recorded before June 9.

The album was released 8 August 1964 and on CD July 1988. It was listed on the charts in the US during no less than 41 weeks though it only reached #43 at best. In the UK it spent 1 week at the Top 10 as #8.

Live history

The following songs have never been played live:

Denise
 Black Crow Blues
 I Shall Be Free No 10
 Motorpsycho Nitemare
 Ballad In Plain D

Officially released live versions:

It Ain't Me Babe	Before The Flood (1974)
All I Really Want To Do	At Budokan (1978)
It Ain't Me Babe	Real Live (1984)

Spanish Harlem Incident has not been played live since 1964.

All I Really Want To Do was last performed during the 1978 World Tour. It was rehearsed with both Grateful Dead in 1987 and with G.E. Smith before the start of the Never-Ending Tour, but has not been played since at the time of this writing.

Chimes Of Freedom was played regularly in 1964 and then revived in 1987 with both Grateful Dead and Tom Petty. Since then it has not appeared with the exception of the inauguration of president Bill Clinton in Washington 17 January 1993.

To Ramona, My Back Pages, I Don't Believe You, and It Ain't Me Babe are all part of the regular Never-Ending Tour repertoire.
